ERNEST FARINO

Director (DGA) / Writer

Ernest Farino has directed three feature films, 7 hours of television, and extensive 2nd Unit (including not only action sequences but full scenes with principal actors). His most recent assignment was an episode of the SyFy/Netflix series Superstition starring Mario Van Peebles and Robinne Lee.

His episode of the syndicated series Monsters, "Mannikins of Horror," based on a story by Robert (Psycho) Bloch, was touted as the top episode of the premiere season. Farino then directed the premiere episode of the second season with Lydia Cornell and Marc McClure, as well as episodes starring Orson Bean, Ed Marinaro and Tina Louise.

The Monsters episodes lead Farino to directing the feature film, Steel and Lace (Fries Entertainment) starring Bruce Davison (Oscar® nominee for Longtime Companion), Clare Wren (The Young Riders), David Naughton (An American Werewolf in London) and Michael Cerveris (Tony nominee as Tommy in The Who's Tommy on Broadway and recent co-star of The Good Wife) and written by Emmy® winner Joseph Dougherty. Following its theatrical release, Steel and Lace recouped over $1 million in foreign sales on its first offering, had an initial pre-buy of 20,000 video units, was released on laserdisc, and has played extensively on Pay-Per-View, HBO, Cinemax, The Movie Channel and Showtime.

"Steel and Lace is a cool, inventive take on the revenge thriller ... the Pulp Fiction of its time. New concepts and turns of fate abound, integrating a lot of genres into a well crafted/shot/edited film. An excellent example of good direction and control of the production."
— Online review

Farino directed seven episodes of ABC's top-rated Land of the Lost starring Timothy Bottoms, including the premiere episodes for both seasons. He directed the comedy play Dub by Henry Slesar, voted "Best-of-the-Fest" in the Attic Theater's One Act Play Festival. Farino directed Planet of the Dino-Knights and Journey to the Magic Cavern, two features for Kushner-Locke/Paramount, and filmed in Bucharest, Romania.

Farino has also directed extensive 2nd Unit, including action sequences and dramatic scenes with principal actors, for the Tom Hanks/HBO miniseries From the Earth to the Moon, major sequences for NBC's Noah's Ark in Australia starring Jon Voight ("The Destruction of Sodom" and "The Big Flood"), Sci-Fi Channel's Dune (a total of over one hour of that miniseries), and Supernova for Hallmark starring Luke Perry and Tia Carrere.

His produced screenplays include Terminal Force, Beverly Hills Vamp and Demonsword. His action/thriller First Strike placed in the Top 10 out of 1,000+ entries in the annual Writer's Digest magazine national screenwriting competition. He recently completed two screenwriting assignments, Lost Vegas and The Ingenious Adventure of Benjamin Gale, and his spec screenplays include an adaptation of Don Robertson's highly regarded coming-of-age novel The Greatest Thing Since Sliced Bread, and a family film Christmas Castaways. His Hitchcock-style mystery suspense thriller, Blood White, was recently voted First Finalist in the Las Vegas International Screenplay Competition.

As a director, Farino brings considerable production expertise to every project as a result of his extensive work as a visual effects designer/supervisor/producer for films such as James Cameron's The Terminator, The Abyss, and Terminator II, HBO's Citizen Cohn starring James Woods, Brian DePalma's Raising Cain, Snow White—A Tale of Terror starring Sigourney Weaver, Screamers with Peter Weller, and From the Earth to the Moon, for which he was nominated for an Emmy®. Farino won consecutive Emmys® for his work on the miniseries Dune and Children of Dune.
